Japanese Government Scholarship Awardees Expressed their Wishes to Japan

Many Sudanese alumni of “Japanese Government Scholarship” gathered at the Japanese Ambassador’s residence to celebrate their reunion on March 19th, and 4 newly-selected Sudanese postgraduates, who are leaving for Japan this April as scholarship recipients, expressed their wishes to Japan with their seniors. The annual reunion was hosted by H.E. Mr. Ryoichi Horie, the Ambassador of Japan to Sudan, and attended by Dr. Ismail Hussein Fadoul, Lecturer, Institute of Afro-Asian Studies, University of Khartoum (completed his doctorate in Politics in Japan in 1990s) and Dr. Imad Aldeen Ahmed Ali Babikir, Associate Professor, Forestry Research Cooperation (completed his doctorate in Agriculture in Japan in 1990s) and the other members of Japanese University Fellow Association in Sudan (JUFAS).

Ambassador HORIE said, “Sudan and Japan have deepened the academic exchange for more than four decades through Japanese Government Scholarship Program, and all previous Sudanese scholarship awardees have been playing their role as builders of cultural bridge between Sudan and Japan. I hope new Sudanese researchers will also enjoy their research and life in Japan”.

The Government of Japan has been offering scholarship to Sudanese since 1970s. More than one hundred Sudanese alumni, who enjoyed rich research environment in Japan, have returned to Sudan and contributed in a variety of fields of Sudanese society; engineering, agriculture, social science, medical services, etc.

Application for Japanese Government Scholarship 2015 will be open in late-April. Detailed information will be announced on the Embassy’s website;
